Stampede On Stock Exchange Market Causes Worst Panic Since 1914

New York.—The remarkable era of wild public speculation in stocks which has swept over the country during the past few years, came to a climax in the most extraordinary stampede of selling ever experienced on the New York stock exchange and other leading securities markets.

Not since the war panic which resulted in closing the exchange for 17 weeks in 1914, has Wall Street seen such a dark and trying day, and never in financial history have securities markets been thrown into such a tumult. It appeared for a time that the stock markets would be unable to face the situation and that trading would have to be suspended, but the leading exchanges saw the onrush through, although a few floor traders collapsed and had to be aided from the trading rooms.

The situation became so grave that a hurried meeting of leading bankers was called at the office of J. P. Morgan and Company, and a reassuring statement issued from the exchange by Thomas W. Lamont, one of the Morgan partners, finally checked the sinking drop of stock prices and saved the market from a complete impasse.

Secrets of important stocks tumbled from $10 to $70 a share, paper values remaining at the rate of millions of dollars, when the bankers' statement prompted large operators who were buying heavily on the market short, to cover their commitments, and prices of many issues rebounded.

The stocks of six leading corporations at their low levels of the day on the New York stock exchange showed a loss in total market values of nearly 1,000,000,000. The market value of the total outstanding common stock of General Motors showed a loss of approximately $100,000,000; U.S. Steel $75,000,000; Standard Oil of New Jersey $60,000,000; General Electric $40,000,000.

Total sales on the stock exchange reached the amazing figure of 12,841,000 shares, representing by more than 80 per cent the previous record of $240,740 reached in March 28, 1929. The ticker quotations service felt hours behind transactions and traders who were unable to get quotations from the floor proceeded blindly, were at intervals when a few stocks were sent out through the bond market ticker.

Closing prices presented a picture of havoc among quoted values, hundreds of shares selling at or near low levels for the year, and from $20 to more than $100 below the record prices reached in recent months. Nevertheless the price level at the time of the closing was higher than it was a year ago, and was to be substantially above the bottom levels of the year, approximately half of the losses of the terrifying early hours of the day having been regained.

Urges Free Speech

Best Way To Deal With Communists Says Miss McPhail

Toronto, Ont.—Miss Agnes McPhail, Canada's only woman member of parliament, in an interview recently to trouble between the local police and Communists, said:

"My opinion of the way to deal with the matter is to let the Communists have free speech. In the words of some who spoke about Hyde Park, in England, Queen's Park might be a far safer place for Toronto communists. The police have been making themselves the laughing stock of all thinking people. It is the silliest business I have heard of some time."

Will Be Guest Of Honor

North Battleford, Sask.—Premier J. T. M. Anderson will be the guest of honor at the annual rally sponsored by the Board of Trade, which will be held here Tuesday. More than 2,000 people attended the function last year when farmers from all parts of the district came in for the day's entertainment.

Montreal.—While unemployment is still a serious question in this city, it is not so manifest as one might expect, according to A. T. Welton, vice-president of the Canadian National Railway, who has just returned from a trip abroad. The country as a whole, has the appearance of growing prosperity.

To Take Over Branch Lines

Statement Made That C.N.R. Will Operate Branch Lines To Sherbrooke, Quebec

Winnipeg.—Announcement is made that the branch line from Cranberry to the Sherbrooke-Gordon mines at Cold Lake will be taken over by the Canadian National Railway at the end of October.

It is expected that when the branch is taken over there will be a tri-weekly passenger service to and from the P. and a daily freight service. H. MacLennan, president of the Dominion Construction Company, stated that work on the branch had been completed well ahead of schedule.

Local mining men believe that the taking over of the line by the C.N.R. will end great hopes to mining in Northern Manitoba. Work on many promising prospects have been held up, they state, because of the exorbitant cost of taking machinery into the Cold Lake mining area by winter trails.

Believes Draft Satisfactory

Manitoba Cabinet Discusses Agreement For Return Of Resources

Winnipeg.—Positive draft agreement for transfer of natural resources will probably be satisfactory to Manitoba, believes Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior. The Manitoba minister conferred with members of the Manitoba cabinet on the first occasion for informal discussion of the draft.

With certain modifications suggested at the conference, the draft was considered to meet with the approval of the government. Every member of the cabinet was present, with the exception of Premier John Bracken, who is absent in the Old Country. Application of the Manitoba Power Project for extended pulpwood limits is to be considered at a conference to be held on Mr. Stewart's return from the west.

ITALIAN MINISTER TO CANADA MAY BE APPOINTED

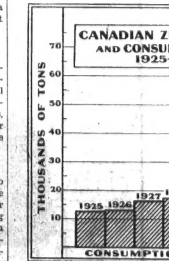

Ottawa.—The appointment of an Italian minister to Canada was forecast in cable dispatches received here, and a statement by the Italian consul-general here, would seem to be transferred to Philadelphia and will be successful. The Italian consul-general here, would seem to be transferred to Philadelphia and will be successful. The Italian consul-general here, would seem to be transferred to Philadelphia and will be successful.

The dispatches forecasting that Italy would ultimately follow the example of the United States, France and Japan by appointing a minister to the Dominion has caused considerable interest in government circles.

A similar report with respect to Germany. The Department of External Affairs would make no official comment with regard to either Italy or Germany. However, there is a general impression that Canada's diplomatic services abroad will be extended. Germany and Italy appear as likely countries with which Canada would next exchange ministers.

Margus Ferrante, in an interview, said that he knew nothing of reports emanating from London that his government would appoint a minister to Canada. "It is quite possible," he is quoted as saying, "but it may not be for some time yet."

ZINC PRODUCTION IN CANADA

Zinc is one of the metals of which Canada now produces a heavy exportable surplus, the last few years having witnessed a rapid increase in the spread between domestic production and consumption. According to figures published by the American Zinc Institute, the Canadian output of zinc last year amounted to about four times the domestic consumption. British Columbia accounts for much the greater part, with Quebec as the other main contributor. Incidentally, the growth of production has converted zinc a minor to a highly important item in Canadian mineral production, the value of the output last year exceeding ten million dollars.

Spirit Of The West

Nothing To Worry About, Newspaper Editor Says

Toronto.—"The spirit of the west is steady and hopeful," said Thos. Miller, of the Moose Jaw Times, here for the meeting of the directors of the Canadian Press. Mr. Miller is a well-known western newspaper man and was a charter member of the Western Association of Press Editors. He started in Winnipeg, 22 years ago. Also he farms himself on a considerable scale, being interested in three sections, nearly 2,000 acres, under cultivation in Saskatchewan.

"This is not a bad economic crop for the west," he said, "with 250,000,000 bushels of high-grade wheat. There was a great saving in operating cost, because we did not import a single harrow. Farmers guarding the crop with their own labor, the combine harvester now widely in use being in part responsible. Of course, there are some individual hardships, some farmers not even saving seed, but these are being taken care of by municipal and farmers' organizations, and it is unlikely it will be necessary to ask Ottawa for financial help as was the case some years ago."

"We expect to get higher prices, and the sentiment of the west is to find the West Pool in refusing to sell at bargain rates, proving in the fact that farmers not in the pool are also holding wheat for a rising market."

"Looking to next year, there were good signs of a bright fortnight ago, but not in the Moose Jaw district. The astonishing thing this season has been the remarkable showing of the bushels of high-grade wheat, where not a drop of rain fell throughout the growing season, and yet a six to 12 bushel crop was required. Our prairie soil is not like your soil down here, because when we get rain it goes into the ground and does not wash away. It is raining here now and we may get good rains yet, but if we do not there will be snow and cold seepage in the spring and good rains in May and June will put the crop on its feet. It is too early to talk about the 1930 crop. Tell people in the east there is nothing to worry about in the prairie west."

Plans For Convention

Domestic Breeders' Association To Meet In Regina, Next Month

Regina.—Preliminary arrangements for the convention of the Dominion Breeders' Association, to be held in Regina, on March 24 to 26, 1930, were given attention by the Saskatchewan Livestock Board, at a recent meeting.

A committee to take charge of these plans was appointed. It consists of C. M. Learmonth, J. G. Robertson, D. T. Elderkin, and R. A. Wright.

These Canadian Breeders' Association meet in Toronto customarily, having met in the west previously only once. That was in Calgary a number of years ago. They are meeting in Regina in 1930, on the invitation of the Saskatchewan Livestock Board and the Regina Board of Trade.

New Claimant For Earlton

Third Man Is Disputing Claim Of Alberta Rancher

London, England.—The dispute over the right to the earldom of Egmout, which has been the subject of a long and bitter fight, has been complicated by the appearance of a third claimant, namely, R. Power, retired captain of the Hampshire Lancashire, who claims to be a descendant of Hon. Philip Tupper Percival, a brother of the fifth earl, Frederick Percival, of Egmout, who died in 1880.

GRAIN STORAGE CRISIS BELIEVED TO BE NOW OVER

Winnipeg.—The grain storage crisis has passed. Yawning bins at country points contain more than enough stored grain to meet the needs of the market portion of the 1929 crop.

Farmers' deliveries are falling off and are being balanced by the movement to the lake head. And lake head bins are being kept level by grain boats steaming steadily eastward.

Attentive observers of the western situation regarded these omens with relief. They looked back on a disastrous month during the first half of October by both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific railways; they remembered the trouble caused by the strike of the Port Arthur and Port William elevators might soon be filled to overflowing by the surplus grain. It was crammed with grain cars.

Just 60,000,000 bushels of what remain to be baled to the country elevators of grain farmers. It was estimated. And aggregate country storage on October 23 after a drop for the second successive day following continued rise for weeks stood at 86,640,000 bushels. The bins still have capacity for more than 100,000,000 bushels. There are 12,000,000 bushels of uncollected grain in addition to the wheat.

With grain deliveries falling off at the lake head, it is considered only a matter of time before movement to the lake-head will show a corresponding drop. Handlers of the grain are depending on having no more grain in hand in terminal elevators after the lake shipping season closes in November. It is necessary to accommodate their winter needs. It is more economical to store in local elevators to the greatest possible extent.

Manitoba Natural Resources Question Is Nearing A Settlement

Northern Lakes Frozen

Prospector Says North Country Suffering From Unprecedented Cold Snap

Edmonton.—"Old Man Winter is already making deliveries of ice in the far north," says the Edmonton Journal, quoting Thomas Creighton, prospector, just arrived in the city from Coppermine river delta. Most of the lakes in the far north are already frozen, the prospector said, and blizzards which have been raging along the Arctic coast for the last week made flying hazardous.

"Coming west from the barrens to reach the Mackenzie River at Fort Resolution Creighton found that the post—notable for the oil rush which occurred there some years ago—was also suffering from an unprecedented cold snap for this time of the year. The distance from the mouth of the Coppermine is more than 2,000 miles from the city via Great Bear Lake and Fort Norman."

Renews Arts Competition

Eight Prizes Are Again Offered By Lord Willington

Montreal.—Lord Willington, Governor-General of Canada, has informed Sir Arthur Currie, principal of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts, that the Willington arts competition, inaugurated last year, eight prizes in all are offered with a view of encouraging and encouraging the production of art and literature. Four prizes of $100 each are offered for sculpture in music, two in literature and two in painting. The prizes of $100 and one prize in sculpture of $200.

SUGAR BEET CROP

Raymond, Alta.: The Raymond
sugar factories are now slicing beets while the harvesting of the beets is still going forward. If all the beets are taken from the ground this season—and it seems likely that they will—the yield is estimated at between 60,000 and 70,000 tons. This season's supply will enable the plant to run day and night for three months, turning out a record production of sugar.

TEST FERTILIZER

Calgary, Alta.: Of several farmers in this region who have been trying out the Trail, B. C., phosphate fertilizer on 5 acre plots, two have made reports. Delbert L. Reynolds reports an average of 45 bushels of the acre, compared with 21 bushels on non-fertilized fields, while Lloyd Morrison reports a yield of 44 bushels to the acre on the fertilized land as compared with 33 bushels on the unfertilized soil.

Agricultural experts are advocating less grain and more stock raising,
but youth continues to sow its wild oats.With so much pro and con talk in the United States legislative bodies,
the building of the American tariff wall is beginning to resemble the building of the Tower of Babel.A man in Chicago sent his mail-order number 115, and she went and married somebody else. Another good reason for patronizing local enterprise.

DEVELOPMENT

CONTINUES

These are wonderful days for the oil
operator, with the prices of Turner Valley stocks soaring higher and higher,
and the brokers making record demands on the margin holders for more money.But one very encouraging feature of the oil industry is the continuance of drilling and development work in spite of the deflated condition of the stock market. There are now more than seventy wells being drilled or producing in Turner Valley, and about sixty more in other fields in the province, and the number is increasing almost daily. Many wells in Turner Valley and elsewhere have reached a stage where big production
may be expected almost any day;
derrick burners will cease, and drilling machinery are being hurried to the sites of new wells which will soon be drilling. The oil industry exhibits a feverish activity, and development is on a bigger scale than ever before.All of which is very encouraging to those who are more interested in the development of our natural resources than the daily fluctuations of the stock market.

SOMEBODY

BLUNDERED.

Somebody "pulled a homer" when the provincial Department of Public Works ordered the grading of the dem road from the railway crossing north. What was once a good road was torn up and turned into a narrow grade of loose earth deeply rutted in many places.This road did not need grading, for it was in first class shape. It was, in fact, the best piece of road in Bow Valley. There was not a thing wrong with it. It was smooth, hard, and free from ruts and holes,
and wide enough for two cars to pass
each other without coming dangerously near to the ditch.Then along came the road grading outfit with orders to grade this road.
To the men on the grading outfit
it was the best piece of road they had seen this summer. The foreman, so we understand, thought it a shame to put the grader on such a fine road, and thinking a mistake had been made, he got in touch with public works officials to see if such was the case. No, there was no mistake; that was the road to be graded. And graded it was.And not only was a good road spotted, but the new grade which was made is quite narrow, with deep ditches on both sides. It is so narrow that it will be dangerous to travel on in wet weather, and motorists will find it difficult to pass each other without one or both cars sliding into the ditch.That's how a good road was spotted at a cost of a considerable sum of the people's money. This money might have been used to build a new grade where a new grade was needed. Such a place is between Latham and Castle, where the farmers drive extremely anxious to have a road built, but have been told there is no money for the work this year. The money thrown away on the dem road would have been well spent on the Cassia-Latham road.

THE HARVEST TO LAUGH

When disappointment lays me by the heel,
And tucks me unexpectantly the while,
Although I rage most furiously
within,
An outward calm I yet preserve,
and even smile.Some sorrow meet with many sighs and tears
And ask why thy grief's bitter does most quell.
But I, though numb'd my senses
and near broke my heart, Braced by a cynical philosophy—
just laugh.

Hussar Girls Put On Splendid Play

HUSSAR, Oct. 20—The amateur play put on by the Hussar Girls' Club on Friday evening was a splendid success. The Community Hall was crowded with an enthusiastic crowd who encouraged the girls in this, their first venture of the kind, by their hearty applause and appreciation of the comedy.

The girls have been drilling on their play for many weeks, with Mrs. Bell as director, and felt well repaid for their work. The gross returns of the evening totalled over $132.

Each girl in the play showed considerable histrionic ability, and they deserve high commendation for the smooth manner in which it was put on, without a flaw anywhere.

"The Last Phoebe" is a comedy especially suitable for the girls' club as there are fourteen in the cast. Margaret LeGrandeur as Florence Davenport was delightful; Ruth Kitchie as Ellen Dodge; Margaret Reeves as Angela Reams; Zella Williams as Grace Greenwood; Helen Armstrong as Emily Hathaway; Isabel Dandae as Ada Mortimer; Madeleine Holland as Alberta Host; all were vivacious and witty young ladies off on a summer outing. Lila Clifard as Margaret Hinds (Peggy), and Elsie Keddie as Hyacinth Crew (Patty) played two leading parts very well. Lois Nelson's Aunt Charity took the part of their chaperon in excellent manner.

Margaret Bell was a typical "Mrs. Mary Connor," keeper of the cottage; Lyle English as Nora, the maid, who reads dime novels, was a great success, keeping the audience in laughter whenever she was on the stage.

Little Holland as Professor Pringleton Hawkins, and Cassie Williams as Professor Aristotle Ambrose, the two impostors, were the cause of much merriment in their parts.

The girls gave a musical program assisted by Madge Keddie with a piano solo, Vivian Currie with a reading, and Marjorie Janz with a number.

High Inspection For Shipping Of Free Freight

Inspection is Required for Free Shipped Under Free Freight Tariff

Every possible precaution will be taken by the Alberta Department of Agriculture to prevent the shipment of noxious weeds from one section of the province to another under the arrangement recently reached where, by hay, straw, and grain feed, and feed oats and barley will be shipped free of freight charges into those districts, where additional feed will be required during the coming winter.

Any shipments of this kind, it is announced by Hon. Geo. Hoadley, minister of agriculture, must be inspected before being loaded, by an official of the department, and for this purpose two inspectors have been appointed. In the past of the province south of Red Deer inspection of all such shipments must be made by W. G. Laxie, 325 21st Ave. West, Calgary, and in the northern part of the province inspections will be made by Frank Stevens, whose headquarters are at the Field Crops Branch, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

It may be pointed out that in addition to the area originally outlined in which the free freight tariff will apply, the following lines have also been included: Irricana to Corbiac, Nidmington to Norfolk, Drangier to Lethbridge, Bassano to Chalmers, Glenhead to Langdon, and Lamont to Arrowwood.

The regulations as originally drafted applied to baled hay and straw, feed oats, threshed or in the sheaf, and grain screenings. Feed barley has since been added to the list of stock which may be shipped into the designated area under the arrangement whereby half the cost of such shipments is borne by the railway company, and half by the Alberta government.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club wins fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Watson, a ballad singer, and makes her famous too. Molly and Al have a baby, Junior, whom Al adores. When Junior, who is two years old, Molly develops a cold, Al is forced to take the baby. For a while there is no trace of him. Al completely broken by the blow, visits his partner, Billy Cline, at the Club Bombo, and declares he must sell out. He is through with Broadway. Just then Al learns from a newspaper that Molly is at a New York hotel, preparing to sail for France that afternoon. He rushes to the phone.

CHAPTER X

"No," said Molly to the maid, "you go on packing—I'll answer." She picked up the receiver to hear Al's voice.

"Molly, is this you? Is it true you're sailing today?"

Molly's eyes grew cold as ice as a look of intense irritation crossed her face. She turned to Perry, putting her hand over the stress mitt, and whispered, "It's Al. Perry started, then Molly answered into the phone."

"Yes, it's true. I decided to sail today."

"The full force of her cold medication was conveyed to Al in those words. But his voice came vibrating back against her ear."

"Please, Molly, you must let me see Junior before he goes. That's all I ask—you won't refuse that?"

"Again Molly signaled quickly to Perry, pointing to Junior. The racketeer jumped up and Al was trying to spot the game! Perry made a quick gesture of disapproval and Molly turned back to the phone."

"There's hardly time," she said, "We're leaving shortly."

"Then it seemed better that Al should hasten a little."

"The boat sails at six Molly—that gives you time. Remember you've taken Junior from me—and you know what he means to me! He's the only thing I have left to live for. I'll be with him only a few moments—you must grant me that!"

Al waited in an agony of suspense while Molly did some quick thinking. She knew Al could make trouble for her if he wanted to do it. She didn't think he would, but if he refused this last request he might suddenly turn up toward her. She had to conclude his. Besides, for a wonder, she suddenly felt just a little sorry for him. After all, he had been an awfully good sport about the 50 years of their marriage, and he did adore Junior.

Just a tasteful dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in water. That is all, effective, yet harmless. It is the standard standard for 50 years among physicians everywhere. One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes so moist, the pain de-

Then she became aware of Perry's agitated glare. He was peering up and down in front of her, judging a failing for her to refuse. But she turned to him and said in low, firm tones: "We must do this for him, John. It won't hurt us. And he's been so decent to me."

Perry made a reluctant gesture of acquiescence.

"Do as you like, but you can't afford to have him come here," he said, "of course not," she turned back to the phone. "I'll have Junior at the 96th Street entrance to the Park in half an hour."

As Al heard her crisp good-bys his face was illuminated with joy at the prospect of seeing his son. It would only be a few moments, but it was something—to hold Junior close once more and bear his baby voice.

Al glanced at his watch, then remembered Billy Cline, who was waiting miserably nearby.

"She consents, Billy! I'm to see Junior in half an hour! Now I must hurry along."

Cline waved his hand and Al picked up his hat and coat.

"Will you ever see me again, later," called Cline as Al hurried away. But Al gave only a hurried wave of his hand, and his thoughts were concentrated on the meeting with his son.

Cline looked after him, shaking his head. It seemed to him that the downfall and complete collapse of Al Stone was imminent all because of Molly.

"It was in Al's place," thought Billy, "I'd certainly try to nab that woman at the boat, and get the child back, but no way to do it. He thinks how it might put a stigma on the baby. And I think he loves Molly too much, even now, to do it."

The night club owner gave a sigh, sat down at his desk, and began to go over the accounts of the Club Bombo.

Al boarded a taxi and reached the 96th Street entrance twenty minutes later. He still had a twenty minute wait, but he wanted to be on the spot ahead of time for this, the most important appointment of his life. He paced nervously up and down, waiting for every limousine that passed. Then, as so often happens when there is so much at stake, his imagination's imaginary fears began to possess him.

What if Molly had lied to him, what if she was stringing him along and was now hurrying with Junior toward the boat? But just when this fear had become so intense that he thought he could endure it a moment longer, Molly's big Rolls-Royce appeared, came to a stop and the door swung open.

Molly wasn't in it, a strange nursemaid stepped out, leading Junior by the hand.

Al rushed forward to clasp his boy in his arms.

As Junior saw Al approaching his little arms opened wide. Then he felt himself caught and lifted high, with his face against his daddy's cheek. Why this was just like home, when his daddy came in at dusk, and he would be snuggled in his arms.

The little boy who was crying when he was first brought to his father's length and whispered, with radiant face:

"It's wonderful to see you again. Did you miss daddy, Junior?"

Junior nodded. "Awful much. I asked mummy where you was. I asked her all the time."

Again the quick clasping of the little warm body in his heavy blue overcoat. Then Al carried Junior toward one of the benches that stood by the park entrance.

"Let's sit down here, Junior. We can be all alone."

"That was a striking lieutenant in the world war. Whenever he got news of a coming attack illness would overtake him, and he'd ask permission to go to the rear."

"Well, one day when he applied again for permission to retire on account of illness his colonel said to him: 'Lieutenant, if this keeps on I'll have to send you in for a wreath of absence.'"

Restoring the Dead To Life

An Australian scientist has exhibited a device before the Sydney Medical Congress which, he claims, restores persons apparently dead. Curiously enough, it is a needle which stimulates the heart muscles with electricity. Whether that will help lead to the solution of life in terms of electricity remains to be seen.

Dead, silence now teaches us, is an accident to life. Body cells, it has been shown, can be kept alive indefinitely. Again the electricity parallel, for evidently dead comes as a short circuit from the so-far intangible conductors in the human body.

But in a few years they may not be intangible. Radio researches have led to a development where the action of nerves can be registered. With that approach via electricity, it is only a matter of time till their energy can be computed in mathematical terms.

Then, if results are indicated, the research continues into the dispenser of this energy which means life, into the "power house" release of the digestive functions, the metabolic processes, the heart, brain, glands and spinal nerves. Specialists in these various functions have been making discoveries. To correlate these discoveries may lead to something more.

Life, used to be taught is God's secret. But God has no secrets. Our whole conception of life is in terms of electricity. Man already knows the spark of life has some relation to the restless, tremendous electronic energy of other life forms.

Mortality. But he has an excellent chance of broadening into a more glorious realization the life already given him. Vancouver Sun.

The Product Of Progress

Heat

Pre-Historic Man

built his fire at the mouth of his cave. To warm his shivering body he stood close to the fire and toasted his face while his back was chilled—a crude, primitive, inefficient method. The method of the ordinary heating stove is somewhat similar, but the FURNACETTE operates on a different principle. It heats all the air in the house—not only that close to the fire, but the air in all the rooms. It does this by keeping the warm air in continuous circulation, and the result is a cozy, comfortable house, even on the coldest days. The cooler air is drawn in at the base of the Furnacette, it is heated, humidified, and discharged out through the top of the Furnacette, keeping up a continuous circulation, and warming the farthest corners of the house.

The Furnacette is built in three sizes:
No. 1—Grain enamel finish; cast; large size.	23 inches square	$100.00
No. 2—Grain enamel finish; brick lined	23 inches square	$65.00
No. 3—White Enamel, 20 inches square		$45.00
